

Monitoring Made Simple

Streamline how you manage your risk and compliance requirements

Effortlessly Scale Risk Management with Sterling Monitoring

Monitoring your workers for possible risky behavior can help you proactively identify exposures before they negatively affect your organization and the public. Before Sterling Monitoring, a post hire screening program that met your company needs meant your business had to potentially manage multiple services in different environments, often with manual processes.

Sterling Monitoring helps transform risk management into a more efficient, optimized experience:

- View, manage, and report on your end-to-end monitoring program in our Client Hub or via the Sterling API.
- Immediately action information provided with records validated at the primary source.
- Configure your program to target your specific risks and compliance requirements.
- Remove administrative burden by leveraging our tech-enabled tools (Adverse Action, Client Matrix Application).
- Easily scale your monitoring program using the Client Hub's robust account and permission capabilities.

We invest millions of dollars annually in proprietary technology and integrations to optimize your end-to-end screening program¹
